

November 13th, 1789

Letter from John Newton to John Campbell, November 13, 1789

John Newton

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.spu.edu/newton\_campbell

---

Recommended Citation

Newton, John, "Letter from John Newton to John Campbell, November 13, 1789" (1789). Newton/Campbell Letters. 20.
https://digitalcommons.spu.edu/newton\_campbell/20

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Special Collections at Digital Commons @ SPU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Newton/Campbell Letters by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ SPU.

500 13th 59

100 copies

Mr John Campbell

Merchant

Grave Market

Edinburgh

Dear Sir

Tho I have not parted with my property in the books I have printed, I have committed the management of them entirely to my Booksellers in London - I am well satisfied with their conduct, & they are jointly concerned with me - So that I could neither in honor nor conscience consent to any thing that might prejudice their interest - Usefulness to others if God please, is I hope the chief interest or gain I propose to myself - But the three letters marked A B C in Omicron, cannot I think much affect the sale of the book, if ~~published~~ printed in the manner you propose, & therefore you are very welcome to say, that you have my consent for such publication

I am sorry Dr. Mc. Gills should occasion ~~to~~ trouble to himself & others. What ever judgment may be formed of his book, the Truth which it opposes, will stand firm. It is the very rock on which the Church is built, against which neither force, nor policy, nor sophistry can prevail. I see not how your Judicatories can avoid noticing it, unless they give up your Public doctrinal Standards as untenable. At the same time I fear that Judicial censure, will add to his zeal in a bad cause, & likewise add to his fame, & make his book men enquired after. Unless he can be convinced, he will never think himself confuted. And heart-conviction is the work of the Lord alone.

The plausible & temperate manner in which he writes, makes his book in my opinion more dangerous; than all the volumes which Dr. Priestly has published. However as you observe the great Head of the Church will take care of his own cause, & of his own people. Such things have been from the beginning. There must be Heresies — But they who know the Saviour's name, will put their trust in him, when his Opposers have done their utmost to prevent it.

May the peace & blessing of the Lord be with you, & with all who love him in sincerity.

I am Sir Your affe<sup>ct</sup>ionate friend & servant

John Newton

of. 13 Nov: 89

Coleman Street Buildings.