MR. PETERSON—

Who gave the original tract of land on which Seattle Pacific College, then Seattle Seminary, was founded, and which furnishes our beautiful campus of today.

MR. PEASE—

Who furnished much of the faith and enthusiasm and very largely the means for the first main building, now the Men's Dormitory.

MRS. NORTON—

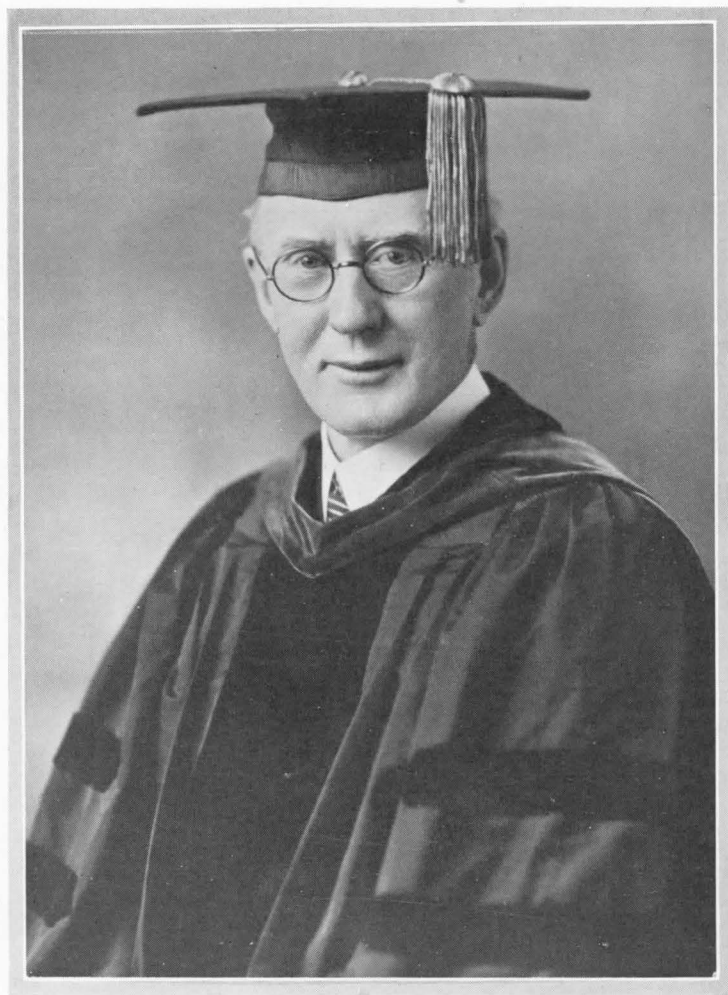

Whose more recent contributions, amounting to twenty-five thousand dollars, have greatly helped to liquidate a heavy indebtedness and to give courage and inspiration for a larger and better college.

CHRONICLES OF THE CLASS OF 1926

THE College Class of '26 entered S. P. C. with twenty members. Despite the fact that we received due initiation, we came forth the liveliest class in the school. We produced a basketball team which competed with the High School Seniors, the College Sophomores, and the College Juniors. The team not only fought, but it won the basketball pennant. The class showed its surplus enthusiasm by taking many early morning hikes.

Our spirit was not much abated by the time we became Sophomores; for we wasted no time in giving the accustomed recognition to our Freshman friends. This was only the beginning of our pleasures. During the year many parties were held at the Probstfeld home. In the spring we held a farewell party at Silver Lake for our advisor, Miss Oberholser, who was planning to attend the University the following year.

By the time we reached our Junior year, we had settled down to a more serious life. The first term we won the R. E. Elkins Scholarship Trophy. An outstanding social event was the banquet given for the Seniors at the Frye Hotel. We also gave a farewell party at Lake Sammamish for our advisor, Mr. Glen E. Carlson, and for six of the Juniors who were leaving the class.

When we came back this year, there were only two of our number, Lillian Probstfeld and Ellery Cram, who had been in the class from the beginning. William Leise, Verona Nickell and Roland Upton were with us last year. The new members who came to us were: Mr. Janosky, from the faculty of Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa, Idaho, who was granted a year's leave of absence for further study; Lin Kwai Hoh, from Canton Christian College, who is making a two-year trip around the world; and Oliver Lawton, from New York, who had done his previous college work in Chesbrough Junior College, S. P. C., and the U. of W.

The Senior days have been busy days, but we have had time for play as well. One of our good times was in the form of a Hallowe'en party given to the Junior class at the Probstfeld home.

As the year draws to a close, we feel that truly it is the commencement in the life of each Senior, the beginning of a life which shall be for others, not for self. It was Christ who said, "* * * whosoever would be first among you, shall be servant of all."

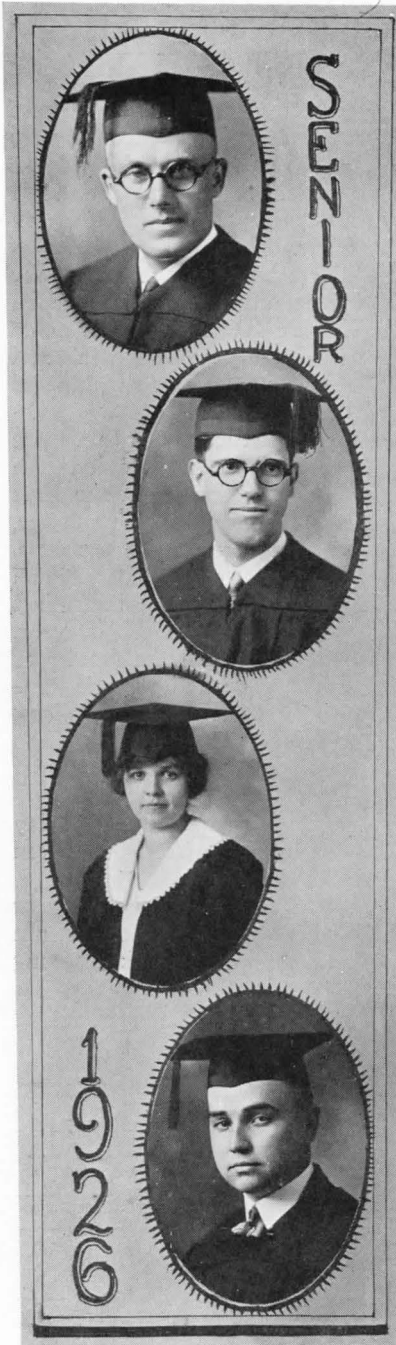

TO THE SENIORS

Each one and all a burning flame
We know them everyone by name;
We know them for what they are,
We only worship from afar—
The Seniors.

They studied through years of four
To reach that longed-for famous shore,
Not bound by any book nor rule,
The pride and envy of our school—
The Seniors.

In future years—from one to four—
We hope to reach that longed-for shore;
And then we'll walk these halls supreme
With seeming proud and lordly mien—
The Seniors.

WHAT OF THE DIM FUTURE?

THE year 1945 found me in the sunny land of India. It was late evening and I was just returning to Calcutta from Benares, where I had been attending a great missionary conference. As I walked up the steps to my home, I was greeted by a group of laughing youngsters, for I was known as "Mother" to more than one hundred brown-skinned orphans.

It was nearly bedtime for the children when I arrived, so I sent them to the nursery for their radio bedtime stories. The nurse, Nandama, tuned in on Seattle, and to my utter surprise there came the announcement that the Independent Order of Orators were featuring Rolland Upton, the famous teller of children's stories.

However, this was not my first surprise for I had been privileged to see William K. Leise at the missionary conference. He had been quite successful, especially in his efforts to concoct an effective poison for white ants.

After Rolland had finished his educational stories, we received a radio picture of Mr. Hoh, whose newly published book, "Simplified Chinese for Americans," had been creating quite a sensation in certain circles. I determined that I would surely purchase one of his books as soon as I returned to Seattle.

The next year, 1946, I took a ship bound for San Francisco for I had been granted a two-year furlough. After I had come off the ship, I was obliged to wait in line for the customs officer. I heard a very familiar voice down the line saying, "I just didn't get that straight now." I looked, and behold! There stood Mr. Janosky in the midst of countless multi-shaped parcels and valises. He recognized me despite the fact that mine was the proverbial aspect of a well-worn missionary. In his kindly way he informed me that Ellery Cram was a very efficient guide in San Francisco's great fossil museum. I did not get to see Ellery, for I had to catch the train coming north.

I had not been on the train long when the porter came through and called out, "The famous Probstfeld Candy Kisses, five cents a box!" I bought some, for I knew they must be good.

However, this was not all. A newsboy came into the car at the next station and I bought a Portland paper. I glanced through the pages and what should I see but this ad: "Oliver Lawton, Expert Tonsorial Artist; Women's Work a Specialty."

I had found that the world was not so big after all. I arrived in Seattle, much dilapidated and antiquated, but cheered by the many memories of the Senior days at S. P. C.

COLLEGE JUNIORS

COLLEGE CLASS OF '27

WHEN the class of '27 swung the portals of learning ajar three years ago, it solemnly resolved that the outstanding mark of identification for said class would be that of achievement over obstacles. Acting upon the theory that obstacles are made merely to be overcome it has triumphed over odds, over seeming disaster, over depletion in the ranks of its members, to ultimate success. To the above statements both faculty and students will testify, even if unwillingly. Although at times some of our activities have been the subject of rather questioning remarks and observations by said faculty and students, all our motives and the sum of our ambition has been to better S. P. C. and make it a greater, nobler, and more spiritual institution.

Although we looked with sadness at our decimated ranks at the beginning of this year, we resolved to carry on that same principle which had heretofore animated the Junior class. The Gym Fund Program is merely one manifestation of the energy and enthusiasm which has proved the driving power in all our activities.

In service for the Master our class has been especially noted, our Tuesday noon prayer-meetings being a source of inspiration and help to all those who attend. Most of the members are engaged in active Christian work, and intend to go out either as missionaries, or in some other work for the King.

Numerous hikes and indoor activities have served to keep the class of '27 a unit and to weld it into a working organization. The Junior-Senior Halloween party, the Magnolia hike, the Junior-Frosh party, and the Junior-Senior banquet are eloquent testimonies to the spirit of this class. The Juniors entertained the Senior class of '26 at Index on May first and a wonderful time was had by both classes. To the immense surprise of the Seniors, an honest-to-goodness banquet, courses 'n everything was served, amid what everyone deemed primitive surroundings. Dr. Tiffany spoke, and was followed by personal testimonials from each of the Seniors. Everyone came away feeling a strange intermingling of sadness and happiness at the conclusion of a wonderful day.

As we look back upon our past achievements, we regret that more has not been done in our past three years. We are resolved, however, to turn our backs upon the victories of the past and look ahead into the future, which is fraught with promise of success and service for the Master.

POPULARITY

"That boy is always popular,"
The students said to me;
"He always gets the best of things,
Just watch a while and see."

So I set out to watch the lad—
His face was rather plain;
But it was frank and open,
One looked, then looked again.

One day we played at basket-ball,
We played our best, but lost;
And hasty words were spoken
Without reckoning the cost.

The boy who was so popular
Kept smiling to the last;
He simply said, "We yet can win.
Let's play the game! And fast!"

As I brushed 'gainst his shoulder,
I liked his cheery smile,
And I heard him softly humming
"Go to sleep, my honey chile."

I played with him in tennis;
And in the final game
We were slowly being beaten
And to rally seemed in vain.

But he smiled and kept on humming
"Down the valley one by one"
Till I grinned and got my nerve back—
Then we rallied, gained, and won.

Whenever we had something hard
That no one else would do
He'd always try, and though he failed,
He'd still come smiling through.

One day there was a heavy cross
That someone had to bear;
The boy who was so popular
Was first its load to share.

And when the Master saw his smile
And cheer mid care and sorrows
He gave him other tasks to do
To busy his tomorrows.

We know he'll be in heaven, too,
Because the way he's trod
Is strewn with many things which show
He's popular with God.

—Leon Titamore.

THE COLLEGE SOPHOMORES

HISTORY repeats itself. Each year a host of verdant plants is transplanted into the halls of S. P. C. and others in their black gowns take the background and pass into other fields of learning. Some take on responsibilities of married life, some go into business, some into teaching and other strenuous duties.

In nineteen hundred and twenty-four the class of '28 was placed in the foreground of this budding age. We soon proved to be one of the strongest classes in school and we certainly did not lack in "pep" and school spirit. We entered heartily into all school activities and contests, especially debates.

One of the greatest honors was bestowed upon us when we won the inter-class basketball tournament and were presented with the Glen E. Carlson trophy cup.

Thus, with our standards set high and our reputation well-established, we passed, with a firm step, over the threshold into the sophomore year of our college life.

Near the beginning of this year we gave a party for the Freshmen in the gymnasium. We were very careful to see that no Freshman was slighted in the invitations. In return, they entertained us at a St. Valentine's party. This friendly spirit between the classes has continued throughout the year and many hikes and parties have been enjoyed.

Our class advisor, Mrs. Tiffany, has been a very capable, enthusiastic leader and has always been the "life" of our hikes and parties. We wish to express our appreciation for the fine co-operation of both Dr. and Mrs. Tiffany in our class activities.

The trip to Magnolia Beach on New Year's Eve was a memorable one. We had a very thrilling ride back home through a dense fog. We returned to the Tiffanys' home early in the evening, there played games and sang old-time songs, and later went to the Ross Church to attend watch-night service.

The Sophomore men kept up their unusual record in athletics and again managed to win the basketball tournament trophy. The score was 27-20. This champion team was composed of Ralph Richards, Wilfred Marston, Jesse Walter, Russell Bisnett, Charles Martin and Fred Hawley. Ralph Richards is the captain of the team and has made a splendid record as our phenomenal center. The excitement ran high when the deciding game of the tournament was to be played. After a hard-fought game the Sophomores won the championship by superior teamwork.

Our class has been well represented on the Honor Roll this year; but educational achievement alone is not our goal. We have worked to become spiritually educated and have tried to live more perfect in the sight of God.

We expect to continue our college career and enter the Junior year with a firm resolve to profit from past experience and to press onward and upward. Our aim is expressed in:

"Build thee more stately mansions, O, my soul!
As the swift seasons roll,
Leave thy low-vaulted past.
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at length art free—
Leaving hinc out-grown shell by life's unresting sea."

THE WINNING SOPHS

THE year brought the basketball trophy again to the College class of '28. However, the honor has not been awarded to us without work and effort on our part. Early morning practises are not a thing in which the average student takes a great relish. The team's morale was constantly raised and strengthened by Ralph Richards, our able captain, and his example was always encouraging; for everyone could see that he was making the best possible effort to bring victory to us. The greatest single factor working for success in any team is team work and our team has been blessed with a fine sense of unselfishness among its members so that each man was eager to go into the game or stay out as was thought best by his fellows.

At the end of each of our two years of basketball, the girls of the class have given us a fine supper on the beach. These events will never leave our memories. The fellows have appreciated the fine support given by the girls.

The Class of '28 is going to be back again next year with a determination to win the cup for the third time, which would give us permanent possession. To all other classes we give a very cordial challenge to try to stop us.

The class of '29 is still at the top! It is not only the largest but also the "peppiest" class that has ever entered the doors of our beloved Alma Mater. The Freshmen are enthusiastic and have the same indomitable spirit that has put our college on the map and will continue to keep it there. We are looking forward with interest to our future years in S. P. C.

Our athletic interests were not excelled by any other classes. We took second place in the inter-class basketball tournament; and one of our men, Herald Leise, won the Sportsmanship Trophy.

We stand high in intellectual attainments as well as those of athletic prowess. As a result of our talent more College Frosh were on the honor roll than any other class in school. We are represented on the debate teams by two of our members also. Both school yell-leaders are Frosh.

On "Kid Day" the Freshmen contributed something in the line of a miniature circus, much to the amusement of the entire student body and faculty. And it must be admitted that for youngsters, we displayed a high degree of intelligence and performed very creditably for Freshmen.

Our hikes and parties were a source of enjoyment. Though they were not many in number they furnished a respite from the daily routine of school life. Among those which will stand out in our memory are the general hike to Fort Lawton, the initiation by the Sophomores on Hallowe'en, the Valentine party, the Junior-Freshman party, and the hike to North Beach on April 23.

We have enjoyed the past year because it has been beneficial to us, and because we believe we have helped to make our school just a little better. Already we are making plans for the coming year, and it is the purpose of each member to do his best to put S. P. C. in the position where all her ambitions may be realized.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP HONORS

AT the beginning of the basketball season Prof. Timbers announced that a Good Sportsmanship Cup would be awarded to the tournament player who best exemplified the principles of good sportsmanship. We were all satisfied when the cup was awarded to Herald E. Leise. He is a fine sport and we are glad to congratulate him on winning the cup. We will say, though, that the race for the honor was a close one, for there are many in our school who are real good sports.

MAGNOLIA IN A STORM

Have you ever hiked to Magnolia Beach
When the wind was blowing a gale,
And felt the spray come pelting
Against your face like hail?

Have you ever heard the breakers
Roar on the lonely beach,
As they seemed to hiss in anger
At the cliffs they could not reach?

Have you ever heard the sea gulls,
As they swept the leaden sky,
Go calling, calling, calling
While the wild gale mocked their cry?

Have you seen the sun departing
Engulfed by tinted clouds
Cast over the troubled waters
Purple and golden shrouds?

Have you seen the ploughing tug-boat
With its banner of wind-lashed smoke,
As it bravely stemmed the billows
Which over its blunt nose broke?

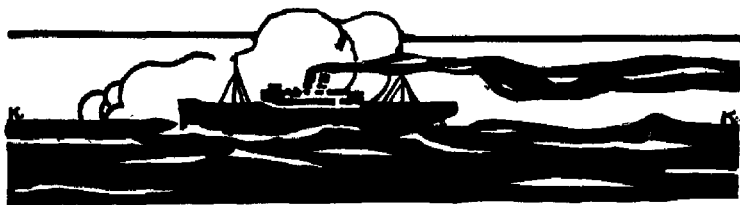

Have you seen the evening settle
With an increase of the gale,
Which made the pasing schooner
Unfurl its bellying sail?

Did you feel, as you wended homeward
Through street and stragging lane,
That for you the devious pathways
Of life had become more plain?

Did you see in the wonders of nature,
In the great foam-crested waves,
The hand of Him who conquered
And banished the fear of the grave?

If so, then you did not squander
The time you spent by the sea;
Your mind will be more tranquil,
Your heart and soul more free.

WHY I TEACH

Because I would be young in soul and mind
Though years must pass and age constrain,
And I have found no way to lag behind
The fleeting years, save by the magic chain
That binds me, youthful, to the youth I love,
I teach.

Because I would be wise and wisdom find
From millions gone before whose torch I pass,
Still burning bright to light the paths that wind
So steep and rugged, for each lad and lass
Slow-climbing to the unrevealed above,
I teach.

Because in passing on the living flame
That ever brighter burns the ages through,
I have done service that is worth the name,
Can I but say, "the flame of knowledge grew
A little brighter in the hands I taught,"
I teach. —Louis Burton Woodward.

THE Eta Pi Alpha met for re-organization and election of officers early in October. Matilda Reichelt was elected president; Esther Jones, vice-president; and Ruth Elkins, secretary.

At the second meeting of the club Mrs. Arthur Marsh, formerly of the College of Puget Sound, spoke of the value of nature study and of some of the ways in which a teacher might, by means of nature study, interest the so-called problem child.

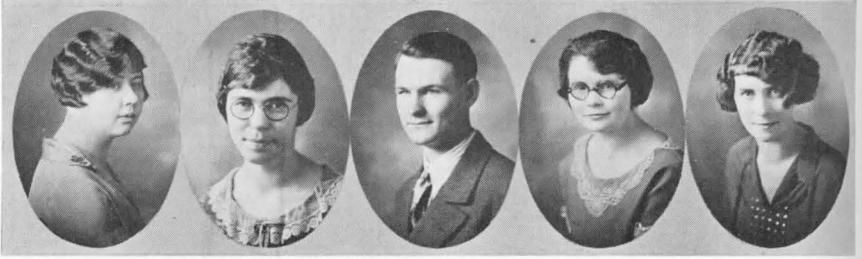

During the meetings of the year many discussions have been devoted to the problems of the training school, the supervisors and student teachers taking part. At a recent meeting Professor Moyer gave a talk on "The part that chemistry plays in the selection of food." In February the club gave a public program with the aid of the training school. They presented a patriotic program which was well received.

At the beginning of the new semester the club membership was greatly increased by the additions from the teaching one group who could now qualify for their pins.

The aim of our organization is to create a professional spirit, to increase good will, to strive for honest endeavor, and to create a desire to be a true teacher in the great field of character moulding.

Our motto is: "A little child shall lead us."

THE graduating exercises for the Normal Seniors was a project in state history and geography. The slogan was: "Our Own State—Washington."

This was worked out by the Primary Department depicting the early Indian life of the State; the Intermediate, the Pioneer life; and the Junior High School, "Washington Today." At the close of the pageant the class adjourned to the Administration Building and planted the ivy, Mr. Wiles being the "Ivy Speaker." After this they sang "Farewell, Alma Mater."

During the year the work of the department was very much strengthened by gifts from Mr. and Mrs. Sam Troutman of the class of 1924, who are teaching in Alaska, and from Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Honaker of Long Beach, California. Each sent a check amounting to $100 during the year.

The graduates from the department in 1923-24-25 are teaching mostly in the Northwest, but some have wandered as far as Arizona, Michigan, Colorado and Alaska. Ten are continuing their education in colleges or universities. Six are married and twenty-one are teaching in Washington.

The work of the Clinic, which was organized five years ago was continued this year under the very able direction of Dr. R. H. Somers, who came highly recommended. Miss Lindburg who had been with the dietician clinic for two years was married during the year and the Anti-Tuberculosis Association sent Miss Honora Hughes to continue the work. Miss Mary Oades of the graduating class assisted by Miss Annie Parsons, has charge of the Clinic.

The officers of the P. T. A. are as follows: Mrs. Carl Signor, president; Mrs. A. H. Stillwell, vice-president, and Mrs. J. D. Lockard, secretary.

The Nina Frye Tent, Daughters of Veterans, presented an American flag to each department of the Training School at their respective programs. Rev. C. S. McKinley, President of the Board of Trustees, received the flag for the school.

Miss Ingrid Olsen, born January 8, 1903, died May 1, 1926. She entered the Normal Department after graduating from the Lincoln High School and finished with the class of 1925. She accepted a position at Scoby, Montana, but was compelled to resign at the holidays and has since been confined to her bed. She was an honor student of great promise, modest and dignified; a Christian girl, loved and esteemed by all who knew her.

"They are not lost, though shoreless seas
Between us and our loved ones lie:
For in the land of mysteries,
All life is immortality.
They are not lost: though for awhile
By faith alone, the void is crossed:
But oft their angel-faces smile—
And then we know they are not lost."

PUPILS IN NORMAL TRAINING SCHOOL

TRAINING SCHOOL

WITH the closing of the school year the practice teachers in the Training School take this occasion to express their appreciation of the considerate and helpful attitude shown by their supervisors, Professor Wright, Mrs. DeLacy, and Mrs. Marston. They have given aid and sympathy in every teacher-need and inspired with their own splendid example.

"The Return of Washington," an original and interesting play produced by Miss Lena Smith, and her 8-A Grammar students was an enjoyable feature of the Friday afternoon rhetoricals given February 19, 1926.

The eighth grade reading class with Miss Alma Trullinger as instructor, entertained the intermediate room with a well rendered program on Friday afternoon of May 7.

The Intermediate department, under the able supervision of Miss Raymond, have learned many Bible passages this year. The following are a few of the important ones learned: Psalms 1, 8, 19, 24, 121; Isaiah 55; the Beatitudes, and a verse for every letter in the alphabet.

Of an enrollment of thirty-four pupils in Mrs. DeLacy's room only six are girls.

Douglas and Enid had been racing to see who could get the most word cards. They counted them and Douglas piped up and said: "We bof got just as most."

Little five-year Florence was receiving extra help on her word cards, having been absent on account of sickness. She was making good progress and becoming animated and enthusiastic when she said, "Oh, I'm going to learn lots of words and then God will love me."

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

AND it came to pass, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, there was heard a voice which said, "Come all ye ignorant ones into the mighty place of learning even unto Seattle Pacific College." So assembled the Freshmen.

Time hath flown and it hath come to pass that our noble class hath won great honors. We return to S. P. C. as Sophomores and again as Juniors.

Then like an angel of deliverance comes the longed-for Senior year, in which we look wise and sit in the long-coveted Senior seats.

It is the will of the multitude that Glen Blair be chief of the clan; that Dorothy Cook be his tribal assistant; that Olive Wees be keeper of the coffers; that Elva Shoemaker be chief scribe; and George Jackson be representative to the high Council. Howard, whose surname is Timbers, is chosen as the high priest, with whom we may hold council. Mrs. Pauline Philpot Timbers is later chosen as his assistant.

Much wisdom hath been imparted unto us by the members of the most exalted Faculty. We scorn our lower classmen.

And it hath come to pass that we have shown our knowledge and ability by winning the scholarship trophy which we decorate with maroon and gold.

Again we assemble into a class with the object in view of writing many uplifting orations. This we accomplish.

Then into our lives come two days long to be remembered. Yea, never to be forgotten! Lo, on the first the mighty Seniors skip school and spend a day at Lake Sawyer and Green River Gorge. On the second the Jolly Juniors royally entertain the Learned ones at Lake Stevens. Yea, verily, even as the vassals of yore entertained their masters so are the Seniors entertained by the Juniors.

Now approacheth the end! Behold! the day of judgment draweth nigh. Even as the exalted shall be cast down and the humble shall be upraised, so shall we rise to our proper glory and step forth into the world as learned ones.

Verily we shall weep, for the time of separation and the time of our parting are at hand. But weep not too greatly, ye sorrowful ones, but sing loudly and rejoice with exceeding gladness.

Be not cast down, for we shall hold in our hands a bit of parchment which saith to the world that we are the Learned ones from the temple of Knowledge.

We bid farewell to the Green Freshies, to the Youthful Sophomores and to the Jolly Juniors, all of whom will weep and wail and moan with grief when we depart thence from this mighty place of learning and enter into the unknown paths of Life and Destiny.

REMEMBRANCES

AS the busy days of our third year of Academic study draw to a close, it seems but yesterday that we entered these familiar haunts for the first time as Freshmen and looked around anxiously for our respective class rooms.

One reason why the days have passed so quickly has been the many class activities that we have all enjoyed so much. This year has been no exception and has been filled with many pleasant memories. Of course we went on that first general hike; everybody did and we had a splendid time.

On the night of Hallowe'en the attic of the Ad Building was transformed into an abode of "witches and goblins" where we entertained the High School Seniors. Many games were indulged in and everyone had a pleasant time.

The Seniors returned the Hallowe'en party with a trip to Golden Gardens. Yes, it rained, but that did not make any difference; for "we never mind the weather when good fellows get together."

One Friday night we Juniors went alone to Lincoln Beach. It seemed to rain harder that night than any other night in the year; but though we received a good drenching, we had a good time.

The best time of all was when we took the Seniors to Lake Stevens. We started at five o'clock Saturday morning, May 1, and stayed until—well, we were afraid to look at the clock when we got home, but it was late enough. Throughout the day we played ball, pitched horseshoes, went swimming, tobogganing, boating, and fishing and we also devoured three very delicious meals.

As we turn our attention to athletics for a moment, we remember the Basketball Tournament at the first of the year. We really believe that we made a pretty good showing there, too, because we were tied with the College Frosh and College Sophs for first place in the finals and finished in second place. Next year we are going to take away the cup.

ANNALS OF THE CLASS OF 1928

ON the first hike of the school year the Sophomores took it upon themselves to initiate the Freshmen. This was duly done by ducking the boys in the Sound at Fort Lawton Beach. Later in the year we invited the Freshmen on a hike. Games were played on the beach while lunch was being prepared. Afterwards we gathered around the fire and sang songs while we watched the beautiful sunset beyond the lofty Olympics. Everyone enjoyed a good time and regretted when the hour came to go home.

After a few more weeks of study the Freshmen returned the favor. A bountiful supply of refreshments was served, including marshmallows, which were toasted over the coals of a fire, thus concluding a good time. On Halloween we assembled in the Botany Lab, which was decorated for the occasion with our purple and white as well as their black and orange. We all surely had one dandy time. We assisted in raising money for the Gym Fund by taking subscriptions and selling candy.

Due to lack of training our showing on the basketball floor was not the best, but we had some interesting games. We did win from the Freshmen. Our line-up was Crooks, captain and center; Glancy and Higbee, forwards; Hooker and Mumau, guards; and Losey and Platts as subs.

All these good times were enjoyed with our honorary member, Mrs. Cathey. Thus ends a good year for our Sophomore Class.

THE CLASS OF '29—CHRONICLES

President.....	HAROLD HEMRY
Vice-President.....	CLARENCE HORRELL
Secretary.....	BERNICE BRADLEY
Treasurer.....	BURTON MOYER

It might be interesting to trace the origin of the Freshman Class. It is not necessary, however, to say more than to assure our friends that we have come up in places where there was plenty of sunlight, fresh air, food, and wholesome surroundings. We want to assure you that we are hearty, cheerful and active, and we are sure by the glances we receive from the other classes and the faculty that we have the appropriate Freshman appearance.

Perhaps S. P. C. was rather surprised at the first of the year to see twenty bright and mischievous Freshmen coming into the assembly, hardly knowing where to go. We were a bit surprised ourselves but we have gotten over it.

Our class was organized early in the year. Our first president was Verne Williams. Miriam Marston was our first secretary. When Verne had to leave at the end of the first quarter, Florence Achilles was elected to take his place until the second semester when we elected our new class officers who now have charge. Dean and Mrs. Moyer have been our splendid class advisors throughout the year.

We regret the loss of several of our original members but we rejoice in having several new members who have taken their place.

The class has taken a very vigorous part in all student activities. Our president has earnestly tried to hold more meetings than any other president on the campus. Our basketball team worked very hard and though they did not win many games, they did not get discouraged. Some of our members did very well in tennis, also.

There have been many hikes. First, we went to Fort Lawton with all the High School students. Next we went to Magnolia Bluff by ourselves, then to Fort Lawton, when we were so delightfully entertained by the Sophomores. We then gave a hike to Golden Gardens in honor of the Sophomores. On all these occasions we included in our programs sacred and patriotic songs and our college song.

In rhetorical, too, we have done our best. We shall always remember Mary Norris' "Raggedy Man," Esther Waer's musical reading, Burton Moyer's "Cure for Rheumatism," and the dialogue of a class recitation which was made up mostly of Freshmen.

We are young all right and some say we are "green," but our ambitions are high and as we were second in class honors one term, we all think there is still some hope for us.

—FLORENCE ACHILLES AND ESTHER WAER.

THE COLLEGE CHAPEL
A Place of Many Memories

THE TUESDAY EVENING SERVICE

A FREE-ROAMING, but not violent rendering of Malachi 3:16 and 17 into modern speech gives us: "They that, eschewing all evil, with reverence trusted the Lord, had constant fellowship, a fellowship the unifying power of which was their complete devotion to their mutual Lord and Master—their mutual treasure. And the Lord grew attentive" (differentiated their attitude from that of others), "opened the depths of his heart to them; his will set his memory to an eternal purpose and he said, 'When I act, they shall be mine—my treasure; favorite sons and daughters over whom my love shall ever stand guard'."

Malachi spoke to a day of deep, prevalent darkness, a day of rite but not of righteousness, a day many think not dissimilar to our own. Could the same Lord and Master find in much of the life of our College that to it he was the treasure—the precious, and that to him it was even so? We think very much. Surely no devout person, if at all familiar with the Tuesday Evening Meeting, could fail to see that it is the flower of that life, the climax of all its purposes and pursuits, expressed; could fail to see that this service gives abundant evidence of those high favors of grace which are recorded in this Scripture of the faithful remnant of that day.

Here is discovered the ruling motive, the dominant impulse, the central imperial consciousness of the college field and hall, of desk and rostrum, of arena and altar. This common living-driving power is not other than the "hidden treasure"—"the pearl of great price." Who could hear the trumpet-clear testimony, the tremulous voice of prayer, the paeans of praise, the gratitude and purpose declared; who could see the tear-jeweled eye or present glory and doubt either the source or the issue?

To us, the Tuesday Evening Service speaks water-spring freshness, rich shade, garden-cloister quiet and mountain vision. To these hours a host looks forward and a host looks back. Happy heartening hours, how rare thy benedictions; fervid fellowships, how heaven-fraught; the divine majesty—Christ how near!

"Then they that feared the Lord spake often one to another and the Lord hearkened and heard, and a book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord and that thot on his name."

"And they shall be mine, saith the Lord of hosts, in that day when I make up my jewels, and I will spare them as a man spareth his son that serveth him "

—WILLIAM F. CLARK.

THE CHURCH AND THE COLLEGE

THE same Lord that commanded "Go preach" also commanded "Go teach." The Christian church and Christian education have always been closely associated. So it is with the church and Seattle Pacific College. The church is sending her young people in increasing numbers; and the college is training them not only in the usual school courses of study, but also in the Christian faith and is sending them back to their respective societies stronger in the faith of their fathers and better prepared to render a larger and more acceptable service to the church. Many a young man or woman who came to college to prepare for some secular calling has been converted, sanctified, and called by the Master into Christian service. Nor do the students wait until their course of study is completed before taking up active service for the church. The students of Seattle Pacific College assist all five Free Methodist churches of Seattle in Sunday school work. They also assist several other Sunday schools. They take active part in church and evangelistic services, conduct regular services in downtown missions, and help hold missionary, volunteer, and young people's conventions. Several gospel quartets add inspiration to many of our own and other church services. The many prayer bands contribute much to the spiritual life of the College and of the church.

The relation of the college and the local church has been a pleasant one during the years. Students attend Sunday school and church every Sunday. During special revival meetings at the church, college meetings are suspended and students and teachers assist in the church services. Though many of the students assist in various other places on Sunday, nevertheless the students constitute a large and important part of the local church congregation. Though the church and the college are under separate boards and are independent in their organizations, they co-operate in a friendly way, each helpful to the other, yet free from dictation by the other. Each responds in attendance and support of all special programs whether at the church or the college. The ministry of the church pastor, and the testimony and the sympathy of the older members of the church give courage and support to the young, and sometimes discouraged and home-sick student. Likewise, the youth, optimism, and religious fervour of the students add inspiration to the fathers and mothers of the church. The Free Methodist Church, through the College, is taking advantage of its unusual opportunity to extend its special message of holiness and spiritual life to a large number of young people of its own and many other denominations.

REV. J. D. LOCKARD

The year 1926 has been of signal victory and blessing at the college church. Under the inspiring ministry of Rev. J. D. Lockard the work of the Lord has gone forward and has borne fruit both in the college and in the surrounding community.

A remarkable feature of this year has been the intense interest displayed in the young people's meetings. Under the leadership of Professor Timbers the meetings have been filled with the spirit of the Lord and with inspiration for everyone who attended. Every meeting was well attended and blessed by the presence of the Lord.

As we look back upon the achievements of the past year we feel that the Lord has truly blessed us; and we firmly believe that the future holds depths yet unsounded in the love of God, and in his work.

A DECADE

THE decade closing this June has been unique in the history of Seattle Pacific College. It has been a period of much financial and educational reorganization. The decade opened with but forty students enrolled and it closes with over four hundred. The annual receipts at the beginning were but $5,732.05; this year they will total above $50,000.00, or about a thousand dollars per week. The teachers' budget has increased from $3,500.00 to $17,000.00.

During the decade, over $63,000.00 has been spent on buildings, repairs, equipment and improvements. More than fifteen thousand contracts have been entered into with students, patrons, and business firms. There has been no litigation and only a few have required special consideration or modification for satisfactory settlement. During this period the institution has been nearly self-sustaining, leaving the church free to pay off a heavy indebtedness, amounting, all told, to about $100,000.00. Through the decade bills have been promptly paid and salaries have been regularly paid in full.

Educationally, the college has been enlarged and strengthened materially. The faculty has been increased from time to time by well-trained and experienced men and women. The staff compares favorably with those of larger and more heavily endowed institutions. During the decade the high school has been fully accredited by the State University and recently arrangements have been made whereby students majoring in certain subjects in college will pass readily to graduate work in the University without loss of credit. The grades, the high school and the normal department have been fully accredited by the State Board of Education.

Religiously, Seattle Pacific College has kept pace with its financial and educational enlargement. Daily Bible study has been introduced in the grades, high school, and college. A Bible department has been established, and an increasing number of students are studying the Book of all books. Interest in foreign missions, evangelism, Sunday school work, and various other religious activities has been increasing throughout the decade. The students' prayer meeting, perhaps the best measure of the spiritual interest of the school, has increased from a score of students the first year to an average of one hundred and seventy-five the present year. These students' prayer meetings are evangelistic and at least two-thirds of the meetings result in altar services.

In all lines there has been a gradual and healthy growth of the institution during the decade until it has outgrown its obscurity and is attracting to its halls this year young people from thirty different denominations who come here to seek an education under wholesome and safe Christian influences.

President.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

- Leader*.....WILLIAM K. LEISE
Assistant Leader.....JAMES O. WILES
Secretary-Treasurer.....RUTH E. ELKINS

The Student Volunteer group of Seattle Pacific College is a local organization belonging to the national movement of Volunteers. The Volunteers do not usurp nor encroach on the functions of any church or missionary board. It is a recruiting agency, serving all evangelical churches, irrespective of denomination or creed; and it has the endorsement of every leading missionary board on the continent. The movement is composed of students from colleges and universities all over the country who are looking forward to the foreign field as their life work. It is not a highly organized body, but rather a movement which has for its main purpose the uniting of the efforts of students having the same aim and plan for life. Its goal is "The Evangelization of the World in this Generation." With the firm belief that every Christian should put his life into harmony with the will of God, the Student Volunteers aim to help every Christian student find his right relation to foreign missions.

The Seattle Pacific College Band has had many interesting activities this year. The members of the group have found great delight in deputation work. All college students who feel that God has a place for them on the foreign field are urged to join.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY

PROMINENT among the religious organizations of the College and the local church is the Young People's Missionary Society. In the meetings, which are held once a month, the young people have the opportunity of hearing some of our missionaries from the foreign fields. Among those whom we have heard this year are Mrs. A. M. Anderson, returned missionary from Africa, and Dr. C. F. Appleton, from China.

In April an interesting program was given by the members of the society on the opening of Thibet to missionary work. The life and work of Dr. Shelton who was responsible for the opening of this work was also reviewed.

Other activities of the society include the home mission work and the monthly Mission Study classes dealing with Latin America. An active missionary spirit is maintained in the society by frequent correspondence with former students who are now engaged in foreign missionary work. Among these is Miss Daisy Frederick, who is being supported financially by the society. In a public meeting of the society, held on May 23, a subscription of more than five hundred dollars was raised, an amount more than enough to pay Miss Frederick's salary. Miss Frederick is a missionary in South Africa.

Interest in the society has been shown by good attendance at the meetings and by interesting and well-prepared programs. Our hopes for the Y. P. M. S. are high, the outlook is bright, and we feel amply repaid for the efforts of the past year. Much credit is due Mrs. Jacob Moyer for the activities and success of this new organization.

GIRL RESERVES

The Girl Reserves of S. P. C. have tried to face squarely the daily tests at home, at school, at work and at play; to be friends to all and to show Christ's love in every little deed; to give the best of self in service to God and to mankind.

Our club has shown much improvement over the one of last year. Our various committees have been busy throughout the year, and with the aid of the President, Viola La Gasse, we have sought diligently to reach our goal.

Slogan: To face life squarely

Purpose: To find and give the best

Code: As a Girl Reserve I will be—

Gracious in manner
Impartial in judgment
Ready for service
Loyal to friends
Reaching toward the best
Earnest in purpose
Seeing the beautiful
Eager for knowledge
Reverent to God
Victorious over self
Ever dependable
Sincere at all times.

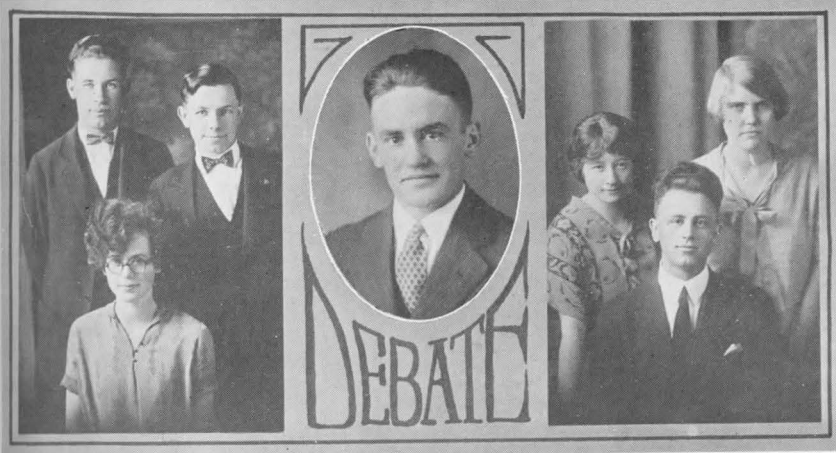

SIGMA PI KAPPA

WITH the organization of the Sigma Pi Kappa Debating Club forensics have been given a new impetus on the campus. The new debate club is an honor organization, taking its members from those who make excellent showings in the annual debate try-outs. The membership is limited to twenty-five in order to insure active participation by everyone. The officers for the past year have been:

President	JAMES WILES
Vice-President	ELLERY CRAM
Secretary	MARGARET ORR
Treasurer	FRANK TIFFANY
Chaplain	WILBUR McCORMICK
Honorary Member	PROFESSOR TIMBERS

The programs, given on alternate Thursday evenings, consist of parliamentary drills, debates, and speeches on topics of the day. The purpose of the organization is to promote and foster the arts of public speaking and debate. The year's work of the club shows that much has been done along this line.

INTER-COLLEGIATE DEBATE

FOR the first time in the history of our school, we have been able to have our college represented in inter-collegiate debates. This year three debates were given: the first against the Stevens Debating Club of the University of Washington; the other two against Pacific Lutheran College of Parkland, Washington.

In the debate with the Stevens club, our debaters successfully upheld that Congress should be given the power to over-ride the decision of the supreme court by a two-thirds vote. The judges awarded a unanimous vote to S. P. C. in this debate.

The debate with Parkland Lutheran College on April 30 was a dual affair, our negative team traveling to Parkland and our affirmative team performing on the home platform. The question debated was on the Child Labor Amendment. Both of our teams were successful by a two to one decision. We are proud of our debaters who have been able to go through the entire season without a defeat. Next year a more extensive debating program will be prepared to further the fame of Seattle Pacific College. Professor Timbers was the S. P. C. debate coach.

MISS RUTH ELKINS.....	Vice-President
MISS MINA GRAHAM.....	Secretary
PROFESSOR MARSTON.....	Faculty Advisor

Through the combined efforts of the different French classes, a French Club has been organized this year which has a membership of fifty. The aim of this club is to study and create an interest in the French language.

The club had charge of one of the Friday afternoon rhetorical programs. This program consisted of French selections and talks describing the French people.

It is hoped that the club will increase the interest of our college students in the French language and become an active part of the literary life of the school.

Secretary	LULU MAE YOUNGS
Treasurer	AGNES RICHARDS

We, the members of the Oregon Club, bring greetings to all members of the Faculty and to all fellow students and friends of S. P. C. We take this opportunity to express the delight that has been ours in our pleasant associations with you during the school year of '25-'26.

Since our club was organized in 1924, we have taken every opportunity to boost our beloved school in our various Oregon Communities. It is our belief that education is learning promptness and thoughtfulness, kindness and helpfulness and every form of purity; that it is the mastering of mind and spirit, of thought and word; that it is knowing that nothing but service brings worthy living; that selfishness is sin and that courage lies in being right.

We have proved S. P. C. to be the institution where this kind of education is emphasized. The influences of the lives of our teachers and our fellow-students can never be erased from our memory. We know we have been strengthened and we will be better men and women because of our associations here.

COLLEGE QUARTETS

THE ORCHESTRA

ALTHOUGH our orchestra was one of wide range—consisting of students from the seventh grade to the senior year in college—it was a very good one. All of the members worked hard and were very faithful in coming to practise each week.

During the past season the orchestra has been an organization of ten instruments. Besides the piano, there were four wind and five stringed instruments, making a very well-balanced ensemble. Early in the season we lost two of our members—one by marriage—but we finished the season triumphantly. After the opening of school, the orchestra was the first organization to get under way and has been one of the school's most faithful organizations throughout the year.

Perhaps the greatest tribute for the success of the orchestra should be given Miss Olga Soehnge for her untiring work in directing it. Miss Soehnge has done remarkably well in bringing the orchestra through the most successful season ever experienced by an S. P. C. orchestra.

The first public appearance of the year was at morning assembly just previous to the Christmas recess. The next appearance was over radio station KJR during the Easter vacation. With the beginning of Commencement festivities, our busy season also started. At the Music Festival we played on the campus. Also at the Alumni Reception and Commencement Exercises we furnished much of the music, thus bringing the orchestra to a fitting climax for such a successful season.

THE ATHLETIC PROGRAM AT S. P. C.

THIS year the athletic program of Seattle Pacific College has taken a definite place in the life of the school. The work done along this line can be divided into two parts: the first being compulsory and the second, voluntary on the part of the student.

The compulsory work in Physical Education is required of every High School student and all Freshmen and Sophomores in college. Two hours a week of work in the gymnasium classes constitutes this compulsory work. The gymnasium classes offer a variety of beneficial and interesting activities, such as calisthenic drills, marching exercises, tumbling, indoor and outdoor games of all kinds and spontaneous play of every sort. This work is given during the first three terms, while during the last term the required work is made up by the student in whatever form of out-door sport he wishes to engage. The purpose of the required Physical Education work is two-fold: First, to provide such exercises as will keep the student in good physical condition; second, to develop in the student the habit of taking body-strengthening exercises. Ninety per cent of disease and illness can be prevented by careful attention to the welfare of the body, hence it is advisable for the student to cultivate those habits of keeping physically fit.

The voluntary work consists of a variety of activities in which the student may engage. The most important of these activities is the inter-class tournaments in basketball for both ladies and men. Over fifty players participated in the men's tournament last winter and about thirty ladies participated in the ladies' games. Thus these tournaments provide competition and exercise for a good share of the students in the school. Good-natured rivalry and good sportsmanship are the qualities that these inter-class games arouse and foster.

For those who do not care for basketball, volley ball and indoor ball are the substitutes. In addition horseshoe pitching is rapidly coming to the front on our campus. The interesting thing about this sport is that it includes everybody from the President down to the smallest first-grader in the training school.

Tennis is played during the entire school year with the exception of a month or so during the winter rainy season. Baseball and track are engaged in also. The latter is usually provided in the nature of a Field Day held in the latter part of May, at which time the classes vie with each other in the track and field events.

These activities are available to the students at all times and they are urged to take advantage of them in order to keep in the best of physical fitness. The aim of the Physical Education Department of Seattle Pacific College is: "A better body for the mind and soul."

VARSIITY BASKETBALL

THE Varsity Basketball season of 1925-26 can be called a success if success depends on winning games and giving the crowds a good time for their money. Six out of ten tells the story of games won, and any loyal rooter will say the games were exciting. Captain Richards led his men in all-around playing, his work at defense and offense being up to par at every second of the game. Bell, Wilson and Leise handled the forward positions and displayed the fighting spirit in every game. The comparatively low scores of our opponents tell the story of the good work of Wiles, Kitchen, Martin and Marston at the guard positions.

The members of the "varsity" were awarded white and maroon sweaters with their letter awards at the close of the season. With almost every letter man planning on returning, we can look ahead to another successful season next year.

VIEWS NEAR S. P. C.

ON my way home from school I walk briskly with a light heart. The sun streams over West Queen Anne Hill and floods the southwest side in its soft tints of purple pink. I choose the highest points for my route home this evening in order that I may at intervals stand and view the grandeur of the handiwork of God and to see a part of the many blessings He has so generously poured out upon our Northwest.

At the water tanks I pause to watch the blazing sun as it finds its way through the few clouds and reflects its brilliant light on the shimmering surface of Elliott Bay. The dull-purple-grey islands lie like floating beaver huts on the water's surface. The lazy dry-weather clouds lie in horizontal strips among the rugged peaks of the Olympics. Farther in the distance, perhaps far out over the rolling waters of the Pacific, flaky, whites now-clouds, half concealed by a smoky screen, spot the sky. To the left, Alki Point with its shade trees trimmed high, resembling palms, looks like a veritable tropical spit. The illusion is so striking that one instinctively looks to his immediate surroundings for further evidences of tropical verdure.

As I am lost in wonder at the beauty that lies before me, my eyes shift southward and I notice the waterfront with a few boats at anchor here and there. I see the smoke rising from the smoke-stacks and drifting out over the water to add itself to the smoky haze hovering over the bay which stretches southward in an ever-thickening pall over the lowlands, concealing with blue-grey mass the whole contour of the country until it reaches the very foot of Mount Rainier, all but concealing the lower mountains that look up to their superior.

The Mountain, pride of the West, in all her splendor, as a bride awaiting the groom, decked in the daintiest of pinks and purples, stands before me. As the evening light falls upon her, I adore her as the most beautiful mountain God has made for the satisfying of man's eye in the search for beauty. The greyness of the distances beyond makes a fit background to bring out the gorgeously rich colors, so harmoniously blended on the snow-covered sides and dome. The evening dusk is in its infancy. As I gaze, soft shadows, purple-blue, on the east side of the dome change irregularly into deep shades of pink on the north snow-slopes, where, cut at their lower reaches by purple glacier valleys, they become almost white in the direct rays of the setting sun.

I wish the sun would never go down, that no cares would call, so that lingering, I might fill my soul with beauty.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

"Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

SEATTLE PACIFIC COLLEGE is becoming noted not only for its Student Volunteers and evangelistic deputation work but also for its work in the Sunday Schools of the city. Several calls have come in during the year from various places and our students have responded.

We fail to pay them tribute by forgetting them and speaking of the other workers. But they are teaching young minds and molding characters—minds and characters which will make up our coming generation—by the study of Christ and His Word. They are planting seed which will strengthen boys and girls and make them strong men and women for Christ.
