IMPERIAL WAR MUSEUM

and the following number quoted:

16th March 1951.

Dear Sir,

The Imperial War Museum is the official Department in this country responsible for the collection of the records of the Wars of 1914-1918 and 1939-1945; their causes, conduct and consequences.

In addition and in order to complete as far as possible our records of the two conflicts, our archives include works dealing with the effect of the wars on the religious, social, political and economic life of the people of all countries; the Arts and the development of weapons, equipment and uniforms.

The Library of the Museum has, largely owing to the generosity of authors, editors, publishers and others, amassed a very fine collection of printed and manuscript material which is available to authors, students, the Press and other organisations of many countries.

Consequently it is with great interest that we learn of your book "THE AMAZING STORY OF SERGEANT JACOB DE SHAZER" and we should be very grateful if you would be good enough to present us with a copy of this work, autographed if possible, for inclusion in our archives.

Yours faithfully,

for Librarian.
